

SALE OF EASTER GLOVES

FOR WOMEN AND MISSES

Washable Doeskin Gloves, white and natural, one-button or clasp; value $1.25, 95c now.

16-button Mousquetaire, white only; value $2.25, $3.60.

Misses' 2-clasp Glace, value $1.25, 95c.

Cape Glove, in black and colors, 12-button; value $2.50.

Kaufmann & Co. Kaufmann & Co.

Social and Personal

Easter season will be unusually gay at Atlantic City this year, and a large portion of fashionable society will spend Easter week at least at that resort. Mrs. James H. Branch, who has been the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Thomas Burton Speed, here for some time past, left yesterday for Washington. Mrs. Branch will spend a few days in Washington before joining Mrs. Arthur M. Payne at Atlantic City for Easter.

Richmond-Neal. Richmond society was much interested in the marriage of Miss Carrie Pace Neal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. Neal, and William Franklin Augustine, which took place very quietly yesterday evening at half-past 6 o'clock in the home of the bride's parents, 9 West Main Street. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Walter Russell Bowie, rector of St. Augustine.

DEMAND. The Flour That Gives Universal Satisfaction.

WOMEN'S OUTER GARMENTS. FREE. 1311 EAST BROAD STREET.

Over a hundred different kinds of Talcum Powders at TRAGLE'S from 3c to 50c can.

FROM FACTORY TO YOU— ROUNTREE'S For All Leather Goods, Trunks and Cases. 703 East Broad.

Kramet's Gently Sweep the System. More convenient and cost less than Liquid. A sure relief for Indigestion, Constipation, Rheumatism and Uric Acid Affections. All Druggists—10c, 25c, 50c.

Dreyfus & Co. 201 E. Broad. Important displays of new Spring Fuits, Dresses and Millinery.

JURGENS Special Values in Baby Carriages $19.00, worth $25.00.

For Oil Cooking and Heating Stoves See N. KLEIN & SON, INC. 630 East Broad.

HAMMOND Headquarters for Wedding Flowers.

HAVE YOU SEEN THE New Method Gas Ranges AT Pettit & Co.'s?

Bien & Harding Women's and Misses' Outer Garments. 1111-1113 West Broad Street.

Rountree-Sutherland-Cherry Corporation WE MAKE A SPECIALTY of packing household goods and china for shipment. 111-113-115 West Broad Street.

Paul's Church, and only the immediate families and a few intimate friends were present.

Miss Grace Neal was her sister's maid of honor, and only attendant, and Miss Augustine acted as best man. Mr. and Mrs. Augustine, who were on their return to Washington, and on their return will occupy an apartment at the Chesterfield.

Engagement Announced. Marion Gordon Willis, of Fredericksburg, announces the engagement and approaching marriage of his daughter, Miss Katherine Gordon Willis, to Dr. J. Rufus Hunter, of Raleigh, N. C. No date has yet been announced for the wedding.

In Baltimore. Mrs. Joseph E. Taylor and Miss Elizabeth Taylor, of "Woodland," near Danville, left Tuesday for this week for Baltimore, where they will spend a week. Later Mrs. Taylor and Miss Taylor will go to Atlantic City to spend the month of April.

Met Yesterday. The Confederate Memorial Literary Society, which met yesterday morning, will unveil a tablet on the building of the University College of Medicine at Clay and Twelfth Streets, May 22, to mark the site of the residence of the vice-president of the Confederate Memorial Literary Society, which met yesterday morning. The unveiling of the tablet will be on the site of the residence of the vice-president of the Confederate Memorial Literary Society, which met yesterday morning.

The unveiling of the above tablet was announced at the meeting of the society which was held in the Confederate Museum, with Mrs. L. C. Daniel presiding.

The site committee also announced at this meeting that the consent of Secretary of the Treasury McVeigh has been obtained to the placing of a bronze tablet on the stone front of the Post-Office, which front is to be retained in the new building. An appropriate inscription will be on the tablet as to the use of the building as a Post-Office during the war, and calling attention to the fact that it was here that Jefferson Davis was tried.

Dr. J. Powell Smith has consented to give his personal collection of "Stonewall" Jackson some evening next month for the benefit of the site committee of the society. Two donations of $5 each from Mrs. W. H. Mann and Dr. J. W. Williams were also reported to the site fund.

The society decided after thorough investigation that the office for exchange of prisoners during the war was located at the northwest corner of Ninth and Franklin Streets. A tablet will later be placed here.

Home Wedding. The home of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Van Denburgh was the scene of a pretty marriage on yesterday morning at 11 o'clock, when their daughter, Mary Gould, became the bride of Robert R. Richardson, of Richmond. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. R. Johnson, and the wedding march was rendered by Mrs. S. S. Perkins. The bride wore a tailored suit of dark blue with hat and gloves, and carried a corsage bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley. Miss Otis Van Denburgh, in pale pink chiffon over muslin, wearing a picture hat of pink, and carrying a shower bouquet of carnations, was maid of honor. The groom was attended by Philip Garrison as best man.

Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Richardson left for an extended trip through the North.

Meetings of Interest. The Colonial Dames of America in the State of Virginia, Richmond Society, will meet in the parlors of the Woman's Club on Friday evening at half-past 4 o'clock.

The board of managers of the Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities will meet on Tuesday morning, April 2, at 11 o'clock in the rooms of the Virginia Historical Society. A full attendance is desired.

Important Meeting. The Junior Hollywood Memorial Association will hold an important meeting on Saturday morning at 11 o'clock in Lee Camp Hall. All members of this association are urged to be present at the meeting Saturday morning, as a great deal of important business will be discussed.

Attractive German. A most unique and enjoyable affair was given by the Jolly Juniors' Social Club on Monday evening at Belvidere Hall in the form of a leap year german. The hall was beautifully decorated in blue and white, the colors of the club, while palms and jonquills formed a background, which set off the dimly lighted tables to advantage. Supper was served later in the evening. Those chaperoning the affair were Mr. and Mrs. Marks, Mr. and Mrs. Simons and Mrs. Amster.

Mr. and Mrs. Eppa Hunton, Jr., and their little son have returned from a visit to Atlantic City.

Mrs. James C. Smyth, who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Meacham, in New York, is expected home Friday.

Midshipman Jennifer Garnett, United States Navy, has been the recent guest of his mother in Ginter Park.

Mr. and Mrs. George Nurney, of Suffolk, are spending this week with relatives in Richmond.

Misses Ethel and Louise Wright, of this city, are the guests of their sister, Mrs. P. R. Ewing, in Charlottesville.

Ernest Schen has returned to Dallas, Tex., after a short visit to relatives in Richmond.

E. W. Bruns has returned to Norfolk, after visiting his children in this city for a few days.

C. B. Garnett has returned to his home in Ginter Park, after a short stay in Middlesex county.

Governor and Mrs. William Hodges Mann have returned to Richmond, after visiting Colonel and Mrs. James Mann in Norfolk.

Judge R. T. W. Duke, of the University of Virginia, is spending some time in this city.

A. Langstaff Johnston, Jr., has returned to Richmond, after a short stay in Washington.

Home Clarend, of this city, has been the recent guest of his father, S. A. Clarend, near Thomasville, N. C.

Morton-Tolley. [Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Appomattox, Va., March 27.—Miss Bessie Virginia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Tolley, of this county, was married to-day at her parents' home to Edward W. Morton, of Madison, O. Mr. Morton is the son of V. R. Morton, of Charlotte county. They left for their future home in Ohio to-day.

SITES FOR FEMALE COLLEGE. ARE BEING INSPECTED

Salisbury, N. C., March 27.—After visiting Concord, Mount Pleasant, China Grove and Lexington, the commission of business men and ministers appointed to inspect sites, receive bids and make a recommendation for the location of a Lutheran female college is spending the night in Salisbury.

The commission was met at the Salisbury station to-night by the Manufacturers' Club and given a reception at the courthouse.

A final executive session will be held in Salisbury to-morrow and the commission will report to the North Carolina Synod at Charlotte May 7.

Salisbury is making a strong appeal for the college.

Ask Your Doctor Ask your doctor how often he prescribes an alcoholic stimulant for children. He will probably say, "Very, very rarely." Ask him how often he prescribes a tonic for them. He will probably answer, "Very, very frequently." Then ask him about Ayer's non-alcoholic Sarsaparilla.

THAKIMMERS Pack Away Your Winter Clothes Use White Tar or Cedar Moth and Dustproof Bags. Suit size, 24x37 inches, 50c; Cedar, 65c. Overcoat size, White Tar, 30x60 inches, 60c; Cedar, 75c. Extra large size, 30x70 inches, White Tar, 90c; Cedar, $1.25. Tar Paper, large sheets, 5c each, or 50c per dozen.

Kolheimer's N. W. Corner Third and Broad. Showing Spring Styles Colonial Pumps.

Save Money on FURNITURE at Jones Bros. & Co., Inc. 1418-1420 E. Main St.

White Canvas Button Shoes, $1.69 ALBERT STEIN'S 5th and Broad

Gray Enamel Ham Boilers, each 98c The E. B. Taylor Co. 23 W. Broad Street and 1011 East Main Street.

J.B. Mosby & Co. Special values in Women's Suits, $24.75.

FAIR PLAY EVERY DAY THE GLOBE Remember For satisfactory Optical Work, Glasses and prices and free examination. Smith & Webster Opticians, 612 E. Main.

THE WAGONSMITH Sydnor & Hundley SEVENTH AND GRACE

The Velvet Kind Same Quality Every Day. PURITY ICE CREAM CORP. Monroe 1861.

BAKING POWDER Absolutely Pure The only Baking Powder made from Royal Grape Cream of Tartar NO ALUM, NO LIME PHOSPHATE

SPAIN'S GRANDEZZA RECEIVES A SHOCK

Discovers That Member of Ducal Family Is Working as Chambermaid.

BY LA MARQUISE DE FONTENAY. SPAIN'S Grandezza has received something of a shock, by the discovery that a member of the Ducal Family is working as a chambermaid.

Dona Teresa Aosta Osorio y Moscoso, granddaughter of the Duchess of San Lúcar in Mayor, and closely related to the ducal families of Medina de las Torres, Montemar, Sessa, etc., is working as one of the chambermaids on the sixth floor of this fine new hotel, one of the Ritz system, which stands opposite the Prado Museum.

Dona Teresa has been driven to seek this form of livelihood by deep poverty. Her father, Don Juan, a general Acosta who played so important a role during the reign of Queen Isabella, gambled not only his own fortune, but that of his family, and his memory serves me right, by means of self-destruction. He left his widow, Dona Teresa, a pauper, and she, miserably without a cent, but overwhelmed with debt, and all the grand relatives, who at first helped a little, gradually gave up, leaving her to her fate.

Dona Teresa has been driven to seek this form of livelihood by deep poverty. Her father, Don Juan, a general Acosta who played so important a role during the reign of Queen Isabella, gambled not only his own fortune, but that of his family, and his memory serves me right, by means of self-destruction. He left his widow, Dona Teresa, a pauper, and she, miserably without a cent, but overwhelmed with debt, and all the grand relatives, who at first helped a little, gradually gave up, leaving her to her fate.

Dona Teresa has been driven to seek this form of livelihood by deep poverty. Her father, Don Juan, a general Acosta who played so important a role during the reign of Queen Isabella, gambled not only his own fortune, but that of his family, and his memory serves me right, by means of self-destruction. He left his widow, Dona Teresa, a pauper, and she, miserably without a cent, but overwhelmed with debt, and all the grand relatives, who at first helped a little, gradually gave up, leaving her to her fate.

Dona Teresa has been driven to seek this form of livelihood by deep poverty. Her father, Don Juan, a general Acosta who played so important a role during the reign of Queen Isabella, gambled not only his own fortune, but that of his family, and his memory serves me right, by means of self-destruction. He left his widow, Dona Teresa, a pauper, and she, miserably without a cent, but overwhelmed with debt, and all the grand relatives, who at first helped a little, gradually gave up, leaving her to her fate.

Dona Teresa has been driven to seek this form of livelihood by deep poverty. Her father, Don Juan, a general Acosta who played so important a role during the reign of Queen Isabella, gambled not only his own fortune, but that of his family, and his memory serves me right, by means of self-destruction. He left his widow, Dona Teresa, a pauper, and she, miserably without a cent, but overwhelmed with debt, and all the grand relatives, who at first helped a little, gradually gave up, leaving her to her fate.

Dona Teresa has been driven to seek this form of livelihood by deep poverty. Her father, Don Juan, a general Acosta who played so important a role during the reign of Queen Isabella, gambled not only his own fortune, but that of his family, and his memory serves me right, by means of self-destruction. He left his widow, Dona Teresa, a pauper, and she, miserably without a cent, but overwhelmed with debt, and all the grand relatives, who at first helped a little, gradually gave up, leaving her to her fate.

Dona Teresa has been driven to seek this form of livelihood by deep poverty. Her father, Don Juan, a general Acosta who played so important a role during the reign of Queen Isabella, gambled not only his own fortune, but that of his family, and his memory serves me right, by means of self-destruction. He left his widow, Dona Teresa, a pauper, and she, miserably without a cent, but overwhelmed with debt, and all the grand relatives, who at first helped a little, gradually gave up, leaving her to her fate.

Dona Teresa has been driven to seek this form of livelihood by deep poverty. Her father, Don Juan, a general Acosta who played so important a role during the reign of Queen Isabella, gambled not only his own fortune, but that of his family, and his memory serves me right, by means of self-destruction. He left his widow, Dona Teresa, a pauper, and she, miserably without a cent, but overwhelmed with debt, and all the grand relatives, who at first helped a little, gradually gave up, leaving her to her fate.

Dona Teresa has been driven to seek this form of livelihood by deep poverty. Her father, Don Juan, a general Acosta who played so important a role during the reign of Queen Isabella, gambled not only his own fortune, but that of his family, and his memory serves me right, by means of self-destruction. He left his widow, Dona Teresa, a pauper, and she, miserably without a cent, but overwhelmed with debt, and all the grand relatives, who at first helped a little, gradually gave up, leaving her to her fate.

Dona Teresa has been driven to seek this form of livelihood by deep poverty. Her father, Don Juan, a general Acosta who played so important a role during the reign of Queen Isabella, gambled not only his own fortune, but that of his family, and his memory serves me right, by means of self-destruction. He left his widow, Dona Teresa, a pauper, and she, miserably without a cent, but overwhelmed with debt, and all the grand relatives, who at first helped a little, gradually gave up, leaving her to her fate.

Dona Teresa has been driven to seek this form of livelihood by deep poverty. Her father, Don Juan, a general Acosta who played so important a role during the reign of Queen Isabella, gambled not only his own fortune, but that of his family, and his memory serves me right, by means of self-destruction. He left his widow, Dona Teresa, a pauper, and she, miserably without a cent, but overwhelmed with debt, and all the grand relatives, who at first helped a little, gradually gave up, leaving her to her fate.

Dona Teresa has been driven to seek this form of livelihood by deep poverty. Her father, Don Juan, a general Acosta who played so important a role during the reign of Queen Isabella, gambled not only his own fortune, but that of his family, and his memory serves me right, by means of self-destruction. He left his widow, Dona Teresa, a pauper, and she, miserably without a cent, but overwhelmed with debt, and all the grand relatives, who at first helped a little, gradually gave up, leaving her to her fate.

Dona Teresa has been driven to seek this form of livelihood by deep poverty. Her father, Don Juan, a general Acosta who played so important a role during the reign of Queen Isabella, gambled not only his own fortune, but that of his family, and his memory serves me right, by means of self-destruction. He left his widow, Dona Teresa, a pauper, and she, miserably without a cent, but overwhelmed with debt, and all the grand relatives, who at first helped a little, gradually gave up, leaving her to her fate.

Dona Teresa has been driven to seek this form of livelihood by deep poverty. Her father, Don Juan, a general Acosta who played so important a role during the reign of Queen Isabella, gambled not only his own fortune, but that of his family, and his memory serves me right, by means of self-destruction. He left his widow, Dona Teresa, a pauper, and she, miserably without a cent, but overwhelmed with debt, and all the grand relatives, who at first helped a little, gradually gave up, leaving her to her fate.

Dona Teresa has been driven to seek this form of livelihood by deep poverty. Her father, Don Juan, a general Acosta who played so important a role during the reign of Queen Isabella, gambled not only his own fortune, but that of his family, and his memory serves me right, by means of self-destruction. He left his widow, Dona Teresa, a pauper, and she, miserably without a cent, but overwhelmed with debt, and all the grand relatives, who at first helped a little, gradually gave up, leaving her to her fate.

Dona Teresa has been driven to seek this form of livelihood by deep poverty. Her father, Don Juan, a general Acosta who played so important a role during the reign of Queen Isabella, gambled not only his own fortune, but that of his family, and his memory serves me right, by means of self-destruction. He left his widow, Dona Teresa, a pauper, and she, miserably without a cent, but overwhelmed with debt, and all the grand relatives, who at first helped a little, gradually gave up, leaving her to her fate.

Dona Teresa has been driven to seek this form of livelihood by deep poverty. Her father, Don Juan, a general Acosta who played so important a role during the reign of Queen Isabella, gambled not only his own fortune, but that of his family, and his memory serves me right, by means of self-destruction. He left his widow, Dona Teresa, a pauper, and she, miserably without a cent, but overwhelmed with debt, and all the grand relatives, who at first helped a little, gradually gave up, leaving her to her fate.

Dona Teresa has been driven to seek this form of livelihood by deep poverty. Her father, Don Juan, a general Acosta who played so important a role during the reign of Queen Isabella, gambled not only his own fortune, but that of his family, and his memory serves me right, by means of self-destruction. He left his widow, Dona Teresa, a pauper, and she, miserably without a cent, but overwhelmed with debt, and all the grand relatives, who at first helped a little, gradually gave up, leaving her to her fate.

whole fortune will go at her death to the testator's two nephews, the sons of her father.

So Carlo di Rudini will be from henceforth wholly dependent upon his wife for money that he wants for his education, and for the maintenance of his family.

She has taken his measure by now, and is perfectly capable of dealing with her pecuniary exactions to which her father yielded, probably to order to secure her happiness. The money is held in trust in England, and as the trustees know all about the marquis, it may be taken for granted that they will be quick to resent any attempt at extortion. Their powers are exceptionally large.

(Copyright, 1912, by the Brentwood Company.)

Ainsworth—Robinson. [Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Lexington, Va., March 27.—Miss Emily Taylor Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Robinson, of Lexington, was married this afternoon at 5 o'clock to Benjamin Pushmataha Ainsworth, of Oklahoma City, Okla. The marriage took place at the home of the bride on South Main Street, the bride being attended by her father, Dr. D. Ainsworth, of Washington and Lee University, of Lexington. The bride was given away by her father. The bride's maid of honor was her sister, Miss Margaret Robinson, and the best man was Dr. Ben Ainsworth, of Oklahoma.

Little Miss Emily Pook and Sally Staples and Masters Allan Penick and Robert Howerton were ribbon-bearers. Miss Margaret Witt played the wedding march from "Lohengrin."

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held, following which Mr. and Mrs. Ainsworth drove to New York. They will reside in Oklahoma, where Mr. Ainsworth is practicing law. He graduated last year from Washington and Lee Law School.

Supreme Court Opinions. [Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Raleigh, N. C., March 27.—Sixteen opinions were delivered this afternoon by the Supreme Court, as follows: R. C. Jackson vs. Ayden Lumber Company, appellant, Washington, no error; D. M. Ippock vs. Atlantic and North Carolina Railroad Company, appellants, Craven, modified and affirmed; V. Sedbury vs. R. R. Duffy et al., appeal by Green and Pratt, Craven, error; Martin and Garrett vs. George M. Mask, Wayne, new trial; State vs. J. H. Hewitt, Brunswick, affirmed; George O. Gaskin vs. V. E. McVoy, Brunswick, error; Sarah Skippin, administratrix, vs. Kingsdale Lumber Company, Robeson, affirmed; Kate A. Locklear, appellant, vs. W. A. Savage, Robeson, new trial; Bevil and Vantage, appellants, vs. Atlantic Coast Line Railroad Company, Cumberland, new trial; C. H. Roxford, vs. R. L. Phillips, appellant, Graham, affirmed; Watson and Ivey vs. North Carolina Home Insurance Company, Cumberland, no error.

The court being evenly divided in opinion (Hoke not sitting) judgment stands affirmed; C. M. Wright vs. Pratt et al., Scotland, appeal dismissed under rule 17; State vs. McNeill, Cumberland, docketed and dismissed under rule 17; Wheaton vs. McKnight, Moore, dismissed for failure to print record and brief; Whitefield vs. Bernard, Surry, petition to rehear allowed.

Gets Ten Years in Prison. [Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Gate City, Va., March 27.—G. W. Barnett, charged with the murder of Cleveland Hubbard, was found guilty and given a ten-year sentence to the penitentiary. Hubbard's body was found December 22, 1910, where it had lain in the mountains nearly two months. Ben Roach is serving a similar sentence for being implicated in the same murder. Roach confessed and implicated Barnett, but this was not used in Barnett's trial.

ROYALTY FIGHTS FAT Court Favors Go to the "Divinely Slender." Dearest, Contributing to the Good Work of Redempting the Habitually Obese.

"When knighthood was in flower," it was the habit of royal ladies to be slender. Indeed, no king or queen could ever foretell what the morrow would bring forth—and the morrow went to the feet—and the feet were invariably slender.

Since those halcyon days of lean utility, conditions have changed, and the members of royal households have eaten much and moved about little. Nature has exacted her toll, and to-day European nobility is noted for its numerous fleshy scions and daughters.

There is nothing startling in this, perhaps, for others who never possessed a title are also suffering from the same malady. The interesting feature is found in the fact that European courts may again be noted for the slender ladies and knights, because an American girl figured it all out on her own account.

Miss Marjorie E. Hamilton, of Denver, Colo., who is noted as the "slenderest" of the golden wand deserting her—and once she started to lose her slender grace of girlhood, the other proportions of womanhood, she was no longer in demand as a hundreds' model.

Thousands of thousands of women—and men, too—throughout America have learned how she again reclaimed herself, without drugs, diet or harmful exercise, or anything else strenuous in nature. And now treatment has gone forward to Queen Alexandra of England and the Empress of Germany as well as to many other royal families.

"Fat is a calamity," says Miss Hamilton, "and like all dreadful maladies it must be treated. I was a royal title to the stars of immunity from it. Indeed, it may be a short-cut to obesity. I hope to hear that their royal highnesses have again entered the blessed ranks of the slender—and I know that the possession of rank in their respective realms will not keep these court ladies from enjoying the freedom of supple bodies that the men and women of my own country are enjoying."

At this point in the interview, Miss Hamilton drummed on the polished top of her magnificent desk in her sumptuous office in the Central Bank building, and smiled. "Of course, I sorely expect to have royalty come out openly with a testimonial, and I cannot say that I dare use it if that were the case—but my fat-reducing treatment have gone forward, and just why I was induced to send them is another matter. It is a little way, I suppose, that certain persons high up in the world's favors have granted their favors and satisfying their desires. I am quite contented as to the outcome."

Henry Labouchere's will betrays, in a very marked manner, his distrust, and his entire absence of regard, or liking, for his Italian son-in-law, the Marquis Carlo di Rudini, a familiar figure at one time in the Tondelino of New York. Indeed, people brought in to contact with Rudini developed the same sort of sentiments with regard to him, as those entertained by his father-in-law—sentiments to which I often draw attention in these letters—and the utmost astonishment was expressed by those who knew Labouchere that a man so shrewd, and so quick to penetrate the character of people, should be willing to accept Rudini as a son-in-law. The fact of the matter was, however, that Labouchere idolized his daughter, and such a decree that he was incapable of refusing her anything.

As the will stands now, it is so cleverly devised that the property is tied up in trust for the sole and exclusive benefit of the Marchioness Rudini; and she continues to remain childless the

RAILWAY CONTROL GIVES ADVANTAGE

Witness Tells How Steel Corporation Can Beat Out Its Rivals.

Washington, March 27.—Julian Kennedy, of Pittsburgh, steel plant builder and mechanical expert of world-wide experience, to-day declared unequivocally before the Stanley steel trust investigating committee that such a corporation as the United States Steel Corporation gained a great advantage over competitors by controlling railroads. By owning railroads in the Lake Superior region and the Pittsburgh district, said Mr. Kennedy, the Steel Corporation has considerable advantage over its competitors.

Assuming that the freight rates charged are 40 cents higher than they should be, and that the Steel Corporation hauls ore for independent competitors, it is apparent, on such a rate, the Steel Corporation receives 40 cents a ton extra profit on each ton of ore hauled for itself and 40 cents a ton extra profit on each ton of ore hauled for its competitors. That, in round numbers, enables the Steel Corporation to produce a ton of pig iron $1.49 a ton cheaper than its competitors, the figures being based on the calculation that it requires two tons of ore to make a ton of pig iron.

In my opinion the common carrier should not be persons alike, just as the post-office does. For an industrial corporation to own a common carrier is to have an advantage over others, and also to have the advantage in getting more than due proportion of freight paid."

Asked about the 96 cents a ton freight on ore from Connacht harbor to Pittsburgh over the Bessemer and Lake Erie Railroad, Steel Corporation road, Mr. Kennedy declared that, judging from his study of conditions, the rate ought to be only 40 cents a ton. With a difference of 56 cents a ton, pig iron could be produced $1.12 a ton less.

GRASTY WILL TESTIFY BEFORE STEEL COMMITTEE [Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Charlottesville, Va., March 27.—Dr. J. Sharshall Grasty, of the department of geology, University of Virginia, left to-day for Washington in response to a summons from Representative A. O. Stanley, chairman of the special committee of the House of Representatives, which is investigating the Steel Corporation. Dr. Grasty has been summoned to testify before the committee as to the distribution and value of certain mineral lands in Alabama and Tennessee owned by the Steel Corporation and independent companies.

As a geologist, Dr. Grasty has covered the entire region of mineral lands now under review by Representative Stanley's committee. It is expected that he will be able to clear up any tangled questions which have arisen. He will testify simply as an expert, and not from the point of view of either the government or the Steel Corporation. For this reason it is believed that his testimony will be of especial value at this time.

Among those who have already appeared before the committee are former President Roosevelt, Andrew Carnegie, James J. Hill, Chairman Gary of the Steel Corporation, and George W. Perkins, former partner of J. P. Morgan & Co.

NEWS OF FREDERICKSBURG. Concrete Poles to Be Used for Distribution of Light and Power. [Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Fredericksburg, Va., March 27.—The Fredericksburg Power Company is constructing a number of concrete poles to be used for stringing its wires for distributing light and power throughout the city. The poles are each thirty-five feet long, twelve inches at the base, six inches at the top, and each weighs 2,500 pounds.

The young society people of this city will give an Easter german on Monday night, April 2, at Hotel Fredericksburg. In this city, such are the wishes for distributing light and power throughout the city. The poles are each thirty-five feet long, twelve inches at the base, six inches at the top, and each weighs 2,500 pounds.

The United Daughters of the Confederacy, of this city, at a meeting to be held on April 9, which will be known as Confederate Day, will present a number of crosses of honor to Confederate veterans.

Will Supply Gordonsville Circuit. [Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Charlottesville, Va., March 27.—It was announced to-day on good authority that the Rev. R. H. Clark, of this city, will supply the Gordonsville Circuit, under the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, after May 10. The present pastor, Rev. J. F. Cuthrell, will be transferred to the Baltimore Conference and stationed on the Eastern Shore.

Diamond Rings

We import all Diamonds—we manufacture all Diamond Mountings—we can serve you to the best advantage. We are always pleased to show our goods.

Schwarzschild Bros. Richmond's Leading Jewelers, Second and Broad Sts.

ered the entire region of mineral lands now under review by Representative Stanley's committee. It is expected that he will be able to clear up any tangled questions which have arisen. He will testify simply as an expert, and not from the point of view of either the government or the Steel Corporation. For this reason it is believed that his testimony will be of especial value at this time.

Among those who have already appeared before the committee are former President Roosevelt, Andrew Carnegie, James J. Hill, Chairman Gary of the Steel Corporation, and George W. Perkins, former partner of J. P. Morgan & Co.

NEWS OF FREDERICKSBURG. Concrete Poles to Be Used for Distribution of Light and Power. [Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Fredericksburg, Va., March 27.—The Fredericksburg Power Company is constructing a number of concrete poles to be used for stringing its wires for distributing light and power throughout the city. The poles are each thirty-five feet long, twelve inches at the base, six inches at the top, and each weighs 2,500 pounds.

The young society people of this city will give an Easter german on Monday night, April 2, at Hotel Fredericksburg. In this city, such are the wishes for distributing light and power throughout the city. The poles are each thirty-five feet long, twelve inches at the base